RURAL CARRIERS MUST NOT SHOOT

New Order issued from Post Office Department at Washington will Work Hardship on Adams County Carriers.

Many of Adams County's rural mail carriers will learn with regret that in the future they will not be allowed to shoot game while covering their mail routes and will not be permitted to carry guns. An order to this effect has been issued by the post office department at Washington.

In Adams County many of the carriers have made it a practice to carry a gun while making their daily rounds during the fall and frequently they would shoot a "cotton-tail" from their vehicles as they went along. Some of the carriers would bring down as many as twenty in a season. Their routes lay through districts which were well known haunts for the rabbit and hunting was easy and profitable.

At Washington the new order is said to have been brought about by complaints having been laid that delays in service were caused in this way. Adams County's carriers lost practically no time at all as they did not leave their vehicles to shoot and it would take but a minute to get their game after it had fallen.

The local carriers will miss the sport of hunting next fall for it proved a pleasant pastime while serving their patrons.

A Thrilling Detective Story Free

Another of the Famous Series of Mystery Stories in the New York Sunday World Fiction Series begins Sunday, February 13. The title of the story is "The House Opposite." It is, if such a thing be possible, a more dramatic story than "The House of the Whispering Pines" or "The Leavenworth Case," both of which have appeared in the book section given free each Sunday with The World. This story, "The House Opposite," begins with an installment of about 15,000 words, and 20,000 words will be issued each week until the story is completed. The plot of "The House Opposite" is laid in New York City that is, in the million dollar apartment house district of the upper west side. The demand for copies of the Sunday World containing this story will be great. To secure a copy, order from news dealer today.

HOW GETTYSBURG CAN IMPROVE

Rev. G. W. Sherrick, as President of the Gettysburg Ministerial Association, Gives an Answer to the Times Question.

REV. G. W. SHERICK

(Pres. for the Ministerial Association)

Several gentlemen have written with propriety and force of the material development of the community and we assume that the plea for the improvement of our already excellent schools will be made by a specialist in that line of work. The purely religious phases of our community life, in the church sense, we take it, are not relevant to this inquiry and that leaves us the still broad question of public morality for consideration.

We would first assist the mutual dependence of these several departments of our community life, for without a high degree of industrial development and intellectual attainment the resources for the support of our civil institutions and our moral and religious propagandists would be woefully lacking and the moral value of these to the cause of public order and justice would in turn be lost. We therefore commend the enterprise of our fellow citizens.

As to public and private morality we are not inclined to berate this community. On the other hand we consider it in advance of many other communities in public decency and order; and yet the ideals of Christian morality are such that we feel called upon to condemn many things and to make our plea for the elimination of many evils.

1. Profane swearing, which is a violation of civil law and Christian morality is common upon our streets. This tends to weaken the refined moral sense of the young, making them easier prey of the temptations which lead to more destructive sin. A fine and forceful sentiment should make the profane swearer feel that he is discounted by his own conduct.

2. The full force of our best moral and common sense, together with the tenets of temperance and self control should be brought to bear upon the amusement question. We are not pleading for an austere community life, neither would we take away from the people their cherished recreations but we do plead for the cultivation of moderation and self control and we would call upon all good people to unite to give force to this plea. What we observe with much regret is that hundreds of our people get in the local theatre swim, yield themselves to the fascination of the thing, waste their time and money, dissipate their intellectual and moral strength and then take a downward course in life. This is only one of the forms of dissipation.

3. The movement to have a strong law and order society in our city should be encouraged. Publicity has proved to be one of the strongest restraints upon the grosser forms of iniquity. The light is always a terror to evil doers. Dignified and reliable detective agencies should be employed to expose gross forms of destructive sin. This would do much good as a matter of restraint and would often discover the evidence for the application of criminal law where that would be practical. Such a society, commanding an adequate fund is just the thing for this work and it would have a very wide field.

4. We are in favor of the free flow of practical sympathy to the unfortunate and the relief of distress of all kinds but to avoid encouraging pauperism there should be a more careful investigation of each individual case with a view to stimulate self dependence and efficiency.

5. A strong Young Men's Christian Association co-operating with the other agencies of moral and social effort in the town can be very helpful. The young men should be encouraged.

CHANGED THE RECORD.

The Court Blundered and the Old Man Went Free.

"There used to be an old fellow of sixty," said a Denver judge, "who got arrested about twice a week for conviviality. He was always hailed before Magistrate Blank, and as the magistrate was about sixty, too, a queer kind of comradeship, almost friendship, arose between the two men."

"In the late autumn the toper was called away from Denver. He did not return till Christmas time. The convivial Christmas spirit in the crisp Denver air was, of course, too much for him, and the day after his return he was hailed before the usual magistrate on the usual charge."

"The magistrate in the green festooned courtroom felt kindly and forgivingly. 'Well, George,' he said to the prisoner, 'you are here again at last, eh?'

"'Yes, your honor,' said old George humbly.

"'You've been away some time, haven't you?'

"'Yes, your honor; nigh on to three months.'

"'And how many times, George, did you get drunk during that period?'

"'I don't like to say, your honor,' old George faltered, 'before all these here people.'

"'Well,' said the magistrate, 'take paper and pencil and write it down.'

"So George wrote, and the paper was passed up to the magistrate, who looked at it and said:

"'Ah, well, it's the Christmas season, and since you were away three months, George, and got drunk only sixteen times I'll let you off.'

"'Thank you, judge,' said old George as he left the dock. 'You looked at the paper upside down, though.'

On Safe Ground.

A young clergyman who had been appointed to a curacy in one of the parishes of an English university town was embarrassed by the thought of criticism in his cultivated congregation. He sought counsel from his father, an old and sagacious vicar, saying:

"Father, I am hampered in my ministry in the pulpit. I am now serving. If I cite anything from geology there is Professor A., the eminent expert in this science, right before me. If I use an illustration in Roman mythology, then there is Professor B. ready to trip me up for my inaccuracy. If I instance something in English literature that pleases me, I am cowed by the presence of the learned doctor who holds the chair of English literature here. What shall I do?"

The old man replied:

"Do not be discouraged. I'll give you safe advice. Preach the gospel. They probably know very little of that."

REV. WM. H. ROBERTS

Presbyterian Leader Said to Hold Too Many Offices.

AVOID ROBERTS DISPUTE

Presbyterian Ministers Leave the Executive Session.

Philadelphia, Feb. 8.—Believing that the Presbytery would take up the case of Rev. William H. Roberts, as to whether he should be allowed to hold both the office of stated clerk and treasurer in the general assembly, half a dozen ministers left the meeting when the Presbytery went into executive session.

It was decided, however, not to take up the case of Dr. Roberts at the present time. Dr. Roberts has expressed a desire to be present when the subject is brought up, and he was called away to Chicago. As a result the Presbytery postponed action until the meeting on the first Monday in March. At the same time the announcement that an executive session would be held led several pastors to consider that the case was about to be discussed and left the hall. One of these clergymen gave as his reason for leaving that he did not care to take part in a "fight" if one should arise.

MURDERED WOMAN BURIED IN CELLAR

Body Found Beneath Floor in New York.

New York, Feb. 8.—Police men tore up a few boards in the front basement room of the janitor's apartments of an apartment house at 174 West Ninety-fourth street, scraped away a foot of loosely packed earth below a broken cement flooring beneath the floors and uncovered in a narrow trench the body of a woman, bent almost double over a hot steam pipe. The body was that of Johanna Johansen, called the wife of August Johansen, the former janitor of the apartments.

The twisted body that the police men lifted out of the earth was half clad, the garments hanging loosely about the limbs as if torn to make easy a hasty burial. There were evidences that strangulation had caused the death of the woman, and there were two holes in the left temple which might have been made by bullets or by the point of an icepick. The woman had very little hands, fine and delicate, and not like the hands of a janitor.

Just a few days ago this woman had held in her hands a thick roll of yellow bills and had told more than one person that she had just had a windfall of $2500. She and her husband were going to buy some land and build a house down at Freeport, L. I., she had said. There was no trace of the bill in the deserted apartments.

Mrs. Sage Scatters Coins to Boys Following Carriage.

New Orleans, Feb. 8.—Mrs. Russell Sage, who is here for the carnival, upset all precedents by scattering money to the winds. The money was grabbed up by boys, who followed her carriage on the way through the French quarter.

Mrs. Sage left her hotel for a drive. News of her identity quickly spread and scores of gamins pressed about the carriage crying for gifts. In order to rid herself of the escort Mrs. Sage used all the change she could find, even mulcting the coachman, and the money was thrown to the youngsters.

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 8.—"Women are better off in our present state of civilization in good corsets than without them," is the opinion of Dr. R. W. "I think that certain physicians could employ their time to better advantage by telling women what kind of corsets to wear than in condemning all corsets."

SICK MAN STABS WIFE AND SELF

Slashed Woman at Bedside and Cut His Throat.

BOTH IN DANGEROUS CONDITION

Four-Year-Old Son Witnessed the Attack and Called Help, Saving the Couple From Bleeding to Death. Husband Probably Insane.

Philadelphia, Feb. 8.—Called to the bedside of her husband, who lay ill, Mrs. Mary Cras, of 1720 Jackson street, this city, was attacked with a knife. After she had fallen unconscious across the bed, gashed about the breast and throat, the husband crawled into the next room and cut his own throat.

Husband and wife are in St. Agnes' hospital, both in a dangerous condition. There is little or no hope for the man's recovery, the doctors say. But for the couple's four-year-old son, who saw the attack on his mother, husband and wife would probably have died in the house. He ran to a neighbor's house with the alarm that secured aid.

According to a statement made by the wife to the police, her husband fancied that she had been neglectful of him. The detectives believe, however, that he made the attack and the attempt on his own life in a fit of insanity that has been developing for days.

John Cras, the husband, is thirty years old, and the wife, twenty-four.

Mrs. Cras said her husband complained of feeling ill a few days ago and quit work. He did not stay in bed all the time, but got up late mornings and lay around the house, complaining of his health. She thought nothing of that at the time, she told the police, but looking back over the last few days she felt sure that he had gotten the idea that she was not attending to him as she should have done.

Decayed to Bedside.

He stayed up in his room and Mrs. Cras was at work in the kitchen, with the little boy, John, playing near her. She heard her husband call her by name twice. She went upstairs at once, with the child toddling close behind. Cras was lying in bed, and she went to his side.

As she bent over the man grasped her suddenly and pulled her toward him. Before she started wife had time to realize her danger he struck at her with a potato knife that he had kept concealed under the bed clothes. The woman threw up her right hand and the blade slashed across three of her fingers, almost severing them. The knife had been sharpened to a razor-like keenness. Then the wife began a desperate struggle for her life, screaming as she fought.

For a few seconds she warded off the attack, but the man proved the stronger. Freeing his right hand, he drove the knife into her breast four times and gashed her throat. Then she fainted. Satisfied that he had done his work, Cras crawled into the adjoining room, ignoring the wide-eyed child that stood, frightened and breathless, near the bed, and cut his throat.

Ten minutes later Mrs. Cras recovered consciousness and staggered downstairs, the child following her. At the foot of the stairs she fell unconscious again. The boy ran to the house of Mrs. Adeline Mesherher next door, and told her that his mother was lying "all bloody" in the hall.

Mrs. Mesherher rushed into the Cras house and saw the wife bleeding at the foot of the stairs. In the sitting room, off the hall, she caught a glimpse of the husband sliding from a Morris chair, with blood flowing from a deep gash in his throat. She ran shrieking from the house.

Police men answered the screams for help. They called the patrol wagon, and husband and wife, both unconscious, were hurried to the hospital. The woman recovered consciousness in fifteen minutes after she reached the institution and told of the attack to the special policeman.

LOW RATE FOR GERMANY

Taft Grants Minimum Tariff to Imports From Empire.

Washington, Feb. 8.—President Taft signed a proclamation granting the minimum rates of the American tariff law to German imports after March 31 next, when the maximum and minimum features of the tariff act become operative. The proclamation does not include the German colonies, because of the fact that the tariff board has not completed its investigation into the trade relations between the German colonies and the mother country. It is expected, however, that this investigation will be completed by March 31.

GORE WAS "BROKE"

Blind Senator Stranded in St. Louis Until E-Governor "Staked" Him. St. Louis, Feb. 8.—United States Senator T. P. Gore, of Oklahoma, arrived in St. Louis in a state of great financial embarrassment. In fact, he was compelled to borrow money of a stranger on the train to pay his fare from Washington to St. Louis. His predicament came about because he boasts two pairs of trousers—one he had on, the other with his wallet in the hip pocket, occupied the post of honor in the senator's boudoir at the capital. Summoned back to Oklahoma by an urgent message Saturday night, he hastily donned the trousers in which he likes to appear before his constituents and ran for the train.

When the conductor came along he found no wallet, and but for a kindly stranger the senator would have been compelled to walk.

Former Governor D. R. Francis came to his rescue when he arrived here, and he was able to continue his journey later in the evening.

WOMAN GOES OVER NIAGARA

Buffalo Girl Commits Suicide in Dramatic Manner.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Feb. 8.—Miss Beatrice R. Snyder, of Buffalo, committed suicide by going over the American Falls. She entered the river about fifty feet back from Prospect Point, at the end of the railing. Witnesses say she hesitated a moment and then threw herself over the current, which the next instant swept her over the brink. On the bank she left a handbag, handkerchief and a note, which reads:

"Dear Mamma and Papa—May you both forgive me for bringing this awful disgrace upon you in these years of your life. Also may you heavenly father forgive all my sins. But I have always been very good, thank God. You will find a slip for the money under your dresser scarf. With my heart full of all the kindness and tender love. With love to all. Goodbye. Lovingly, Beatrice."

"BAD" BEEF SERVED ON ROOSEVELT TABLE

Inspector Says It Was Kept Until Tainted.

Washington, Feb. 8.—That bad beef, some of it ready to fall to pieces, was served at the White House during ex-President Roosevelt's occupancy was the testimony of District Food Inspector Dodge before the house committee engaged in investigating the high cost of living in the District of Columbia.

Mr. Dodge stated that it was the custom of a steward at the White House to buy a quarter of beef and hang it up until it was ripe, or "ready to fall to pieces," as the inspector described it, when it would be cut up and served on the White House table. Members of the committee expressed disgust over Mr. Dodge's revelations.

Further, Inspector Dodge testified, many of the wealthy people of the national capital were accustomed to eat from choice meat that had turned black and was on the road to decomposition, because it was more tender. He related an incident of one of his visits to a fashionable Washington market, where he found a quarter of beef, black and apparently unfit for human food. He condemned it and was about to pour kerosene on it and burn it, when the proprietor interfered and told him that he had many wealthy customers who always ordered from such pieces of meat. While the inspector was present a footman for a wealthy family came in and ordered a cut from the piece which had been condemned.

"Gratification of canine appetites," commented Representative Johnson, of Kentucky, who asked Inspector Dodge if this class of meat was kept in the same coolers with beef intended for "civilized people."

Free Child's Remedy

What mother is not looking for something that will help her children in the little ills of life, something for the stomach trouble and the bowel trouble? Long ago she probably has become convinced that a child cannot readily swallow a pill or a tablet, and that to "break them in half and crush them" is an annoyance; that usually they work too drastically, and are nauseating and too powerful for the little one's stomach.

Any mother who will take the trouble of sending her name and address can obtain a free sample bottle of a remedy that thousands of other mothers are using and now paying for. This remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and the offer of a free trial bottle is open to any mother who has not yet used it. Having used it and convinced yourself that it is what you want, you can obtain it in the future of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing. The free sample being simply to convince you of its merits. It is the best way to begin on it. Mrs. L. Davis of 187 W. Harrison street, Chicago, and Mrs. Mary Seldorf, 110 Coke street, Louisville, Ky., both started with a free sample and now they write that they have never been without a bottle in the house since.

It is undoubtedly a great family remedy, as it is adapted to all ages, being mild and pleasant to take and yet thoroughly effective. It is especially the ideal remedy for children and women and old folks, who need something pure, mild and natural. It has the advantage of being a thorough laxative and yet contains no harmful properties. Use it for the most stubborn constipation, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such complaints with a guarantee that it will cure.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. I explain your case in letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. Monarch Light Touch

A typewriter is not an automatic machine with a fixed output; the amount of work produced must always be dependent upon the operator. The operator begins work in the morning with a certain supply of physical energy. With the ordinary heavy working typewriter she exhausts that energy before the day's end—then comes "three o'clock fatigue" and slow, dragging work.

Monarch Light Touch lightens the operator's load—draws less on her energy per folio. The result is that the operator is able to maintain full speed right up to closing time, finishing fresh and strong. Her efficiency is increased, the output of her machine is enlarged, and consequently the per folio cost of typewriting to her employer is reduced.

Let us demonstrate this and other Monarch features to you.

Cost of Beauty
New York. Young Women Keep Young.
Recently a young New York woman received her monthly bill from a downtown beauty parlor. This particular bill amounted to fifty-two dollars for the month, which was, perhaps, a little lower than the average monthly accounts rendered by this shop. It contained such items as Turkish Baths, $2.00; Violet Water Rub, $1.50; Facial Massage, $7.50. The attendant at these exclusive "beauty parlors" frequently make as much as ten dollars a day in tips. Occasionally some "grande-dame" in saffron extracts a perumed ten-dollar piece from her gold bag and tosses it to Nancy with an air of lofty grace. One of these attendants confided to a friend in an unguarded moment that among the many lotions and beauty restorers used in such establishments, a preparation for restoring gray hair was most in demand. It is usually charged on the bill at five dollars a bottle, under a fancy name, but in reality is the same formula as HAY'S HAIR HEALTH, which retails at all druggists for 50 cents and a dollar per bottle, and is manufactured by PHILIP HAY SPECIALTIES CO., New York, N. Y. U. S. A. HAY'S HAIR HEALTH has many imitators, but those who have used different preparations agree that HAY'S HAIR HEALTH is the most effective and safest.

WHY THEY FAIL

Most Pain Remedies Miss The Cause Of Piles
Disagreeable treatment with ointments or suppositories usually fails to cure piles and cutting them off won't remove the cause. Such treatment only moderates the outside effects of the disease and fails to remedy the inside cause. The up-to-date doctors now use internal medicine, to free the circulation in the lower bowel, and so remove the disease.
Dr. Leonard's Hem-Roid, the first and only guaranteed internal pile cure—in the form of tablets—cures any kind of piles. Sold by People's Drug Store, Gettysburg, Pa. $1 for large box. Dr. Leonard's Co., Station B, Buffalo, N. Y.

TAFT SHELVES CHARTER BILL

It Will Not be Pressed at This Session of Congress.

NOT ADMINISTRATION MEASURE

Railways, Conservation and Postal Savings Bills to Take Precedence. Wickersham Busy Explaining Proposed Law.

Washington, Feb. 8.—President Taft will not press for passage the federal incorporation law at this session of congress.

If the bill should be passed, President Taft has stated his willingness to stand as its sponsor and to take the responsibility for having recommended it.

Further than this the president told several callers that he would not make the incorporation bill an administration measure. He declared he felt he had no right to do so, and that it did not rank with the proposed amendments to the interstate commerce law, the postal savings banks and the measures designed for the conservation of natural resources. These latter were promised in the party platform, upon which the president was elected, and he feels that the party is responsible for their passage at this session of congress.

The president believes that there are many things in the incorporation bill which will commend themselves to the legislators as they study the measure. He will not attempt to influence senators or representatives in its favor, however. The bill now goes to the judiciary committee of congress for perusal and consideration.

Wall Street Jarred.
First to look upon the idea of a federal charter with the utmost favor, were rather rudely awakened when it was learned that the president would insist that in any bill passed on this subject there should be included the provision that nothing in the act should be construed as exempting corporations from the operation of the anti-trust act. A great many corporations, it is said, were looking forward to a federal charter as an indication that past sins were forgiven, provided there were no more transgressions in the future.

Frank A. Vanderlip and George W. Perkins, of New York, who saw the president last week, told him that the corporate interests were anything but pleased with the character of the proposed measure, and that few, if any, corporations would take advantage of the act.

The president, it is understood, retorted that the act was a voluntary one, and that the corporations which did not care to come under federal control need not do so. He thought in time, however, that the simplicity of doing business throughout the country, once the provisions of the act were complied with, would appeal to the corporations and that they would come to see the many advantages that the act contains.

As to exempting companies with federal charters from the operation of the anti-trust law, the president said that was impossible. The constitutionality of the proposed act is a serious one, however, as it would deprive the states of any jurisdiction whatever over corporations holding federal charters.

Wickersham Explains Bill.
Already Attorney General Wickersham is being pined with inquiries regarding various features of the bill. He has explained that the organizations whose operations are covered by it are amenable to national authorities for the reason that they thus have but one master as against forty-six they might have did repeal of their charters or punishment for offenses committed rest with the states. There are a number of reasons advanced why more satisfaction may be secured by giving the federal courts jurisdiction. Litigation there is usually more economical, more rapid progress is had than in the local courts and a federal jury is less apt to be liable to bias and prejudice.

One of the many objections to the bill has arisen from the denial of the right of state jurisdiction over the incorporation, but the officials believe that after the law has had a working chance it may be possible to modify its provisions so as to make them less objectionable from the state's right point of view.

GOV. J. F. FORT

Says Income Tax is the Most Just That Can Be Levied.

GOV. FORT DECLARES FOR INCOME TAX

Urges Jersey Legislature to Adopt Amendment.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 8.—Governor Fort sent a special message to the legislature urging the adoption in this state of the proposed sixteenth amendment to the United States constitution, permitting congress to levy an income tax. The amendment has not met with favor on the part of the political leaders generally in this state, and its adoption by the legislature is regarded as doubtful. The governor in his message described an income tax as the most just and equitable form of tax that can be levied.

The governor says that he failed to see any ground for the criticism that under the amendment proposed the income upon state or municipal securities might be taxed. As to the claim that the federal government might injure the states by taxing state bonds, the governor said that the remedy lay in the hands of the people in the selection of congressmen and that the patriotism of the people was a sufficient guarantee against the election of any congress that would lay attacks with a view of destroying the power or integrity of the states.

KILL CRAZY ELEPHANT

Horses Were Used to Choke Big Beast to Death.

Evansville, Ind., Feb. 8.—Fargo, the largest elephant in the Norris & Howe Circus, went insane, and it was determined to kill him as veterinarians said that he would never be well. He had been suffering from rheumatism for more than a year, and Monday he became unmanageable from the intense pain and was pronounced crazy.

A noose was tied in the middle of a large rope, and the ends were run through pulleys and each was fastened to a trace chain that dangled from a harnessed horse. When the noose had been adjusted the horses were driven in opposite directions, thus choking the big beast to death. As the pressure tightened one of the horses was dragged backwards, but the other horse took up the slack rope rapidly, and Fargo fell to the ground and died in a few minutes.

LABORERS MAY JOIN STRIKE

Trouble at Bethlehem Steel Works is Spreading.

South Bethlehem, Pa., Feb. 8.—There are signs of weakening in the ranks of the Bethlehem Steel company's striking machinists. The strikers claim 1400 men are out altogether, saying that 400 of the machinists in No. 2 shop went out Monday, together with 100 men employed in the new Saucon plant as roll turners and pipe fitters. A sympathetic strike is expected among the hundreds of molders and employees of the drop forge department at any time.

At the strikers' meeting a representative of the 2000 Hungarian laborers at the steel works said the foreigners were willing to strike for a ten-hour day at 15 cents an hour, provided the machinists would stick to them. The proposition was accepted with much enthusiasm, and the Hungarians will hold a mass meeting to vote on the strike question.

PAPER BOARD TRUST DISSOLVED

Twenty-Seven Corporations Plead Guilty to Violating Law.

PAID FINES OF $2000 EACH

Indictments Against Individuals Were Nolle Prossed — Defrauded People Out of $5,000,000 Annually.

New York, Feb. 8.—Twenty-seven corporations belonging to the Paper Board association pleaded guilty before Judge Hough in the United States circuit court and paid fines of $2000 each. This practically dissolves the association.

The association had been indicted as a combination in restraint of interstate trade and commerce. The indictment named forty corporate defendants and the same number of individual defendants, officers of the various companies. In regard to the individuals, however, the court nolle prossed the indictments.

The corporations which were fined, all but one paying the money over promptly to United States Commissioner Shields, are: Albion Box and Paper company, Troy, N. Y.; American Paper company, Bogota, N. J.; Bodhine & Hauch company, Monroe, Mich.; Colon Gardner Paper company, Middletown, O.; Eastern Strawboard company, Manchester, Conn.; Empire Paper company, Vincennes, Ind.; Foster Boxboard company, Utica, N. Y.; Fort Orange Paper company, Castleton, N. Y.; Kokomo Paper company, Kokomo, Ind.; Lydall & Foulds Paper company, Manchester, O.; Marlon Paper company, Marion, Ind.; New Haven Pulp and Board company, New Haven, Conn.; Ohio Boxboard company, Pittman, O.; Niles Board and Paper company, Niles, Mich.; Davensand Paper Mills company, New York; Tait & Sons Paper company, Bridgeport, Conn.; United States Board and Paper company, Haverhill, Mass.; Piermont Paper company, Piermont, N. Y.; Beveridge Paper company, Indianapolis, Ind.; Chicago Coated Board company, Chicago; Lafayette Boxboard and Paper company, Lafayette, Ind.; Philadelphia Paper Manufacturing company, Philadelphia; Franklin Board and Paper company, Franklin, Pa.; Vincennes Paper company, Vincennes, Ind.; Elkhart Bristol Board and Paper company, Elkhart, Ind.; Tonawanda Board and Paper company, Tonawanda, N. Y.

The Fibre and Vanilla association, an organization composed of a score of wrapping paper manufacturers, was indicted nearly two years ago on the same charge, and last spring the members pleaded guilty and were fined $2000 each. In that case the fine was regarded as adequate, because all the corporations were small and their operations were limited in scope. In the case of the Paper Board association the indictment charged that the organization defrauded the people of the United States out of $5,000,000 annually, that this illegal combination existed for four years, John H. Parks was the organizer of both concerns.

TRUST BUSTER QUILTS

Wade Ellis Resigns Department of Justice Post.

Washington, Feb. 8.—After several conferences at the White House Wade H. Ellis, of Ohio, resigned his position as assistant to the attorney general in the department of justice to accept the chairmanship of the Republican executive committee of Ohio and to assume charge of the Ohio campaign this fall.

Wade Ellis has been known as one of the most active and energetic of "trust busters." He made a pretty wide reputation along this line when he was attorney general of Ohio, and was taken into the government service less than two years ago because of his proficiency as an enemy of big corporations.

Ellis is not only a man of force and ability, but he belongs to the progressive wing of the Republican party and has played no small part in making that wing a big one. He wrote the Republican national platform, so it is said, and was the personal representative of Secretary Taft in the resolutions committee of the national convention.

After having been summoned to Washington and taken over a job as assistant attorney general, he was put in charge of all "trust busting operations." His latest effort in this line is the present attack on the beef trust.

Indians at White House

Washington, Feb. 8.—Senator Curtis, of Kansas, introduced to President Taft eight Pawnee Indians, who were attired in gorgeous native costume.

Ten Doctors Said He Would Die
"In 1903 we wrote you regarding my husband, who was suffering from heart trouble. He was superannuated by the North Georgian Conference. Ten doctors at different times said he would die. You advised Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy and Restorative Nervine, we did as advised, and improvement was apparent from the very first. He recovered and one Conference in 1904 gave him a charge. He never felt better, although he has very heavy work and does a great deal of camp meeting work. I am so glad we took your advice and gave him the medicine, and feel that I ought to let you know of the wonderful good results from its use."

THE WHITE ROSES.

By F. A. MITCHEL.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

"Edouard," said the countess, "it is high time that you desist from your studies for a long enough period to do the courting necessary to marriage."

"Why can't you attend to the matter for me, mother?" asked Edouard abstractedly.

"I would do so," replied the countess; "indeed, I have already taken steps in the right direction, but I can accomplish nothing without some effort on your part. I have applied in your name for the hand of Mlle. de Cateret. Her parents would be pleased with the match, but the young lady declares she will never marry a man whose fingers are perpetually stained with acids."

"Is she the elder or the younger sister?" asked the young man absently.

"The elder."

"Her name, I believe, is H2O—I mean Caroline."

"Oh, Edouard," exclaimed the countess, raising her hands and her eyes, "you are incorrigible! I do wish you would leave these chemicals for awhile and help me."

Edouard went to his mother, put his arms about her neck and kissed her. "Would you be satisfied, dear mamma," he asked, "if I give up one day to this work?"

"One day! Work! Mademoiselle needs to be courted."

"Is she romantic?"

"Very."

"You say she is religious?"

"Yes; hers is one of those guileless natures that refers every act to a higher power before making a decision."

"The dear creature!" said the young man. "I dare say I should love her devotedly. In us there are doubtless two currents. Could I but utilize them to advantage?"

"Edouard, what are you talking about?"

"Oh, yes, mamma; we were talking about marriage! Forgive me. I will do your bidding. I will go to mademoiselle."

"Caroline!"

"Caroline! And ask her to be your—I mean my wife."

The countess, fearing a relapse, sent at once for her son's hat and coat. He put them on, walked to the chateau of the De Caterets and sent up a card for mademoiselle. She came down becomingly dressed, but received him not very cordially. She knew why he had come and that it was at the instigation of his mother.

"Mademoiselle," he said, "permit me to offer you my hand and my heart."

"Your heart, monsieur?"

"Yes, mademoiselle. I am sure I shall love you devotedly. Just at present I am absorbed in working out a scientific problem. But this will not always be. Some day I may have time to woo!"

"Monsieur!"

"Pardon! I will not speak further on the subject now. We are all in the hands of a higher power, and if that power intends that you shall be my wife he will give you a sign."

"I assure you, monsieur, that I shall require an unmistakable sign to induce me to marry a man who is so infatuated with a science that he has no time to woo a girl."

"Adieu, mademoiselle! I resign myself to the will of Providence."

That night the young lady prayed to the Virgin that if it was her will that her worshiper should marry the scientist she would give her a sign.

The next morning Edouard called at the chateau with a dozen beautiful white roses.

"Mademoiselle," he said, with his hand on his heart and a pious expression of countenance, "last night I dreamed that the Virgin came to me and said: 'Pluck roses from your garden and take them to Mlle. de Cateret. If within a few hours after you give them to her they turn crimson she will become your wife. If, on the contrary, they are still white she will remain a maid and go into a convent.'"

Having said this, he placed the roses in her hand, bowed profoundly and walked away. After going a short distance he turned and saw her standing regarding the roses with the expression of a saint. The expectation that she would be his wife, taken together with the impressive picture, warmed his heart. Returning, he knelt before her, took her hand, kissed it, arose and resumed his walk to his own chateau.

In the chateau of Cateret was a private chapel. Caroline took the roses there and placed them on the altar. She did not go to examine them till just before the set of sun, which sank in a blood red atmosphere. As Caroline stepped into the chapel she saw what she thought to be the sun's rays shining through a window on the roses. She went to them. It was not the sun's rays that colored them. They were really crimson.

Hearing a footstep behind her, she turned and saw Edouard. Approaching, he encircled her with his arms. She raised her eyes and her face to his, and he kissed her lips.

There at the altar they plighted their troth. But a change had come over the young man's heart as well as over his roses.

"Do you love me?" he asked wistfully.

"I do. It is the holy mother's will," she replied.

He did not tell her that the roses were originally red and he had bleached them white by holding them over a pan filled with smoking sulphur. In time they regained their original color.

HOW TO GET WINTER EGGS

How to get the flock of hens to lay during the winter months is one of the most important problems the poultryman has on his hands. For it is then that his eggs fetch the highest price.

Professor Rice of Cornell university, who has made a special study of the care and feeding of poultry, recommends the following method: Keep hoppers before the flock all the time. One containing grit, another crushed oyster shells, another ground beef scraps and another a mixture of equal parts by weight of cornmeal, wheat bran middlings and beef scraps. The scraps should be of the best quality, and fresh water should be kept before the hens all the time on the opposite side of the house from the feed exercise.

An hour before dark a ration of whole grain—wheat, corn, oats, barley or buckwheat—should be scattered in the litter for the hens to scratch out. Professor Rice advises against a hot mash for breakfast, a practice followed by many, on account of its causing the hens to be inactive for several hours. He coincides with the practice of many in recommending green food—alfalfa, clover or turnips—during the winter months.

THE HOME SUPPLY OF ICE.

Much may be added to the keeping quality as well as to the enjoyment of the food supplies for the home if a supply of ice is available during the warmer months of the year. In cities and towns of any size the consumer has his wants in this line met by putting up the "ice" card. With country dwellers the matter is not so simple. For those who wish to lay by a supply of ice for next summer a few suggestions may be helpful. An outbuilding of about the size required for the necessary supply may be utilized. This should be so situated that there will be good drainage from a point below the lowest tier of cakes. A space of a foot or fourteen inches should be left between the body of ice and the walls of the enclosure. The cakes should be packed in regular fashion for economy of room, with enough space between them so as to give free drainage to the bottom. The sawdust or other material used in packing should be poured in between the ice and the walls as the pile increases in height, but should not be packed down. When the last tier of ice has been laid a ten inch layer of the packing material should be placed over the whole body of ice. The air chamber above the ice should be kept well ventilated during warm weather. A supply of ice is often kept by cruder methods than those above outlined, but not with so satisfactory results.

Before adopting buttermilk as a health potion calculated to enrich the blood and build up shattered nerves it will be well for the patient to inquire whether such milk is sterilized before it is drunk, as it may be laden with tuberculosis, which would make the "last end of the man worse than the first."

In order that patrons may have their purchases strictly fresh, proprietors of fish markets in some European cities sell fish alive, their customers selecting their fish as they swim within sight in a tank. This practice takes account of the fact that the shorter the time between water and frying pan the more delicious fish is.
